

Clues: A Journal of Detection: Volume 41 Index (2023)

Compiled by Lisa Koyuki Smith

AUTHOR INDEX

- Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.
- Beyer, Charlotte. "No Picturesque Village is Safe": Agatha Christie's Cornish Crime Scenes in "The Blood-Stained Pavement" and "Ingots of Gold." 41.1: 95–105.
- _____. Using Creative Writing in English Literature Assessment: Diversity and Inclusion on an Undergraduate Crime Fiction Module. 41.2: 107–09.
- Bernthal, J. C. Teaching Crime Fiction as Creative Writing: Introduction. 41.2: 87–88.
- Borrione, Francesca. Reframing Il Mostro in Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders: American Killers, Italian Monsters, and the Transnational Imagination. 41.1: 128–38.
- Calhoun-French, Diane M. Rev. of Critical Essays on English and Bengali Crime Fiction. 41.1: 142–43.
- Carrigy, Daniel. Riddle Me This: The Batman (2022) as Metaphysical Detective Fiction. 41.2: 73–85.
- Cuder-Domínguez, Pilar. Embodied Borders: Countering Islamophobia in Ausma Zehanat Khan's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.
- Das, Shreya. The "Other" Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay's Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.
- Dubrow, Heather. "Still harping on daughters": Maddie in Michael Connelly's Hieronymus Bosch Series. 41.2: 21–30.
- Evans, Mary Anna. Reading Crime Fiction, Writing Crime Fiction, and Overcoming the Tyranny of the Calendar. 41.2: 101–03.
- Graham, Anissa M. Rev. of The Cambridge Companion to World Crime Fiction. 40.1: 139–40.
- Green, Andrew. Creative Crime Writing and "Enacted Criticism." 41.2: 98–100.
- Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major's One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.
- Hopkins, Lisa. Rev. of Fear and Clothing: Dress in English Detective Fiction Between the First and Second World Wars. 41.2: 111–12.
- Jones, Manina. Introduction: Detective Fiction and Borders. 41.1: 5–12.
- Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville's The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.
- Kenley, Nicole. "So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land": Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

- Kochhar-Lindgren, Gray. Chiaroscuro: Gilles Deleuze, Ernst Bloch, and the Philosophy of Detective Fiction. 41.2: 64–72.
- Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.
- Narvaez, Richie. Needing to Nail Down “Noir” for Creative Writing Students. 41.2: 94–95.
- Ní Éigeartaigh, Aoileann. “Not everything buried is actually dead”: The Detective as Historian in Louise Penny's Bury Your Dead (2010). 41.2: 43–52.
- Quinn, Kate M. Spotlight on... Detective Fiction in Chile: Developments in the Genre. 41.2: 8–20.
- Reitz, Caroline. Introduction: “The Warp and Woof of Every Moment.” 41.2: 5–7.
- . Rev. The New Female Antihero: The Disruptive Women of Twenty-first-Century US Television. 41.1: 145–46.
- Rolens, Clare. Rev. Noir in the North: Genre, Politics and Place. 41.1: 143–45.
- Ruzzi, Sylvia. Crimes at the Maritime Border: Miguel Pajares's Agua de venganza [Waters of Revenge]. 41.1: 13–27.
- Schaffer, Rachel. Rev. of Sleuthing Miss Marple: Gender, Genre, and Agency in Agatha Christie's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 140–42.
- Schnabel, Jennifer. Rev. of Contemporary French and Scandinavian Crime Fiction: Citizenship, Gender and Ethnicity. 41.2: 114–15.
- Steege, Miranda. How We Know What We Know: Crime Fiction in Creative Composition Writing. 41.2: 96–97.
- Sundin, Lola. Japanese Crime Fiction as World Literature. 41.1: 84–94.
- Szeljack, Scott. Rev. of Neo-Noir as Post-Classical Hollywood Cinema. 41.2: 112–14.
- Taft, Alison. The Adrenalin Knowledge Gap. 41.2: 89–90.
- Taylor, Art. It's No Mystery: What Genre Fiction Can Teach All Writers. 41.2: 91–93.
- To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.
- Ue, Tom. Build-A-Mutant, Save the World: Metrics, Murder, and Mayhem in Bryan Singer's X-Men: Days of Future Past. 41.2: 104–06.
- Williams, Benjamin. Transmitting Aural Borders: Racialized Sounds, Automobility, and Criminality in Calling All Cars. 41.1: 117–27.

SUBJECT INDEX

Alexie, Sherman

- Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.

Arthurian Romance

- Dubrow, Heather. “Still harping on daughters”: Maddie in Michael Connelly's Hieronymus Bosch Series. 41.2: 21–30.

Asian American Literature

- To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.

Assessment

- Beyer, Charlotte. Using Creative Writing in English Literature Assessment: Diversity and Inclusion on an Undergraduate Crime Fiction Module. 41.2: 107–09.

Automobility

- Williams, Benjamin. Transmitting Aural Borders: Racialized Sounds, Automobility, and Criminality in Calling All Cars. 41.1: 117–27.

Bandyopadhyay, Saradindu

- Das, Shreya. The “Other” Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandyopadhyay's Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Batman

- Carrigy, Daniel. Riddle Me This: The Batman (2022) as Metaphysical Detective Fiction. 41.2: 73–85.

Bengal

- Calhoun-French, Diane M. Rev. of Critical Essays on English and Bengali Crime Fiction. 41.1: 142–43.

- Das, Shreya. The “Other” Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay’s Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.
- Bloch, Ernst
Kochhar-Lindgren, Gray. Chiaroscuro: Gilles Deleuze, Ernst Bloch, and the Philosophy of Detective Fiction. 41.2: 64–72.
- Border Crossing
Jones, Manina. Introduction: Detective Fiction and Borders. 41.1: 5–12.
Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville’s The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.
Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell’s The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.
- Border Deaths
Ruzzi, Sylvia. Crimes at the Maritime Border: Miguel Pajares’s Agua de venganza [Waters of Revenge]. 41.1: 13–27.
- Border Fiction
Jones, Manina. Introduction: Detective Fiction and Borders. 41.1: 5–12.
Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville’s The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.
Kenley, Nicole. “So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land”: Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.
Ruzzi, Sylvia. Crimes at the Maritime Border: Miguel Pajares’s Agua de venganza [Waters of Revenge]. 41.1: 13–27.
- Bosch, Hieronymus (“Harry”)
Dubrow, Heather. “Still harping on daughter”: Maddie in Michael Connelly’s Hieronymus Bosch Series. 41.2: 21–30.
- Bulosan, Carlos
To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan’s All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.
- Biomkesh
Das, Shreya. The “Other” Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay’s Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.
- Canadian Crime Fiction
Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major’s One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.
Ní Éigeartaigh, Aoileann. “Not everything buried is actually dead”: The Detective as Historian in Louise Penny’s Bury Your Dead (2010). 41.2: 43–52.
- Chilean Detective Fiction
Quinn, Kate M. Spotlight on... Detective Fiction in Chile: Developments in the Genre. 41.2: 8–20.
- Christie, Agatha
Beyer, Charlotte. . “No Picturesque Village is Safe”: Agatha Christie’s Cornish Crime Scenes in “The Blood–Stained Pavement” and “Ingots of Gold.” 41.1: 95–105.
Schaffer, Rachel. Rev. of Sleuthing Miss Marple: Gender, Genre, and Agency in Agatha Christie’s Crime Fiction. 41.1: 140–42.
- Cinema
Szeljack, Scott. Rev. of Neo-Noir as Post-Classical Hollywood Cinema. 41.2: 112–14.
- Cityscape
Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville’s The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.
- Close Reading
Steege, Miranda. How We Know What We Know: Crime Fiction in Creative Composition Writing. 41.2: 96–97.
- Cold War
To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan’s All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.
- Composition
Steege, Miranda. How We Know What We Know: Crime Fiction in Creative Composition Writing. 41.2: 96–97.

Connelly, Michael

Dubrow, Heather. "Still harping on daughters": Maddie in Michael Connelly's Hieronymus Bosch Series. 41.2: 21–30.

Cornwall

Beyer, Charlotte. "No Picturesque Village is Safe": Agatha Christie's Cornish Crime Scenes in "The Blood-Stained Pavement" and "Ingots of Gold." 41.1: 95–105.

Creative Writing

Bernthal, J. C. Teaching Crime Fiction as Creative Writing: Introduction. 41.2: 87–88.

Beyer, Charlotte. Using Creative Writing in English Literature Assessment: Diversity and Inclusion on an Undergraduate Crime Fiction Module. 41.2: 107–09.

Evans, Mary Anna. Reading Crime Fiction, Writing Crime Fiction, and Overcoming the Tyranny of the Calendar. 41.2: 101–03.

Green, Andrew. Creative Crime Writing and "Enacted Criticism." 41.2: 98–100.

Narvaez, Richie. Needing to Nail Down "Noir" for Creative Writing Students. 41.2: 94–95.

Steege, Miranda. How We Know What We Know: Crime Fiction in Creative Composition Writing. 41.2: 96–97.

Taft, Alison. The Adrenalin Knowledge Gap. 41.2: 89–90.

Taylor, Art. It's No Mystery: What Genre Fiction Can Teach All Writers. 41.2: 91–93.

Ue, Tom. Build-A-Mutant, Save the World: Metrics, Murder, and Mayhem in Bryan Singer's X-Men: Days of Future Past. 41.2: 104–06.

Crime Short Story

Beyer, Charlotte. "No Picturesque Village is Safe": Agatha Christie's Cornish Crime Scenes in "The Blood-Stained Pavement" and "Ingots of Gold." 41.1: 95–105.

Crime TV series

Borrione, Francesca. Reframing Il Mostro in Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders: American Killers, Italian Monsters, and the Transnational Imagination. 41.1: 128–38.

Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders

Borrione, Francesca. Reframing Il Mostro in Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders: American Killers, Italian Monsters, and the Transnational Imagination. 41.1: 128–38.

Critical Writing

Green, Andrew. Creative Crime Writing and "Enacted Criticism." 41.2: 98–100.

Dark Tourism

Beyer, Charlotte. "No Picturesque Village is Safe": Agatha Christie's Cornish Crime Scenes in "The Blood-Stained Pavement" and "Ingots of Gold." 41.1: 95–105.

Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major's One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.

Deleuze, Gilles

Kochhar-Lindgren, Gray. Chiaroscuro: Gilles Deleuze, Ernst Bloch, and the Philosophy of Detective Fiction. 41.2: 64–72.

Displacement

Das, Shreya. The "Other" Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay's Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Dress

Hopkins, Lisa. Rev. of Fear and Clothing: Dress in English Detective Fiction Between the First and Second World Wars. 41.2: 111–12.

English Detective Fiction

Hopkins, Lisa. Rev. of Fear and Clothing: Dress in English Detective Fiction Between the First and Second World Wars. 41.2: 111–12.

Ethnicity

Borrione, Francesca. Reframing Il Mostro in Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders: American Killers, Italian Monsters, and the Transnational Imagination. 41.1: 128–38.

Schnabel, Jennifer. Rev. of Contemporary French and Scandinavian Crime Fiction: Citizenship, Gender and Ethnicity. 41.2: 114–15.

Faith

Cuder-Domínguez, Pilar. Embodied Borders: Countering Islamophobia in Ausma Zehanat Khan's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Father/Daughter Relationships

Dubrow, Heather. "Still harping on daughters": Maddie in Michael Connelly's Hieronymus Bosch Series. 41.2: 21–30.

French Crime Fiction

Schnabel, Jennifer. Rev. of Contemporary French and Scandinavian Crime Fiction: Citizenship, Gender and Ethnicity. 41.2: 114–15.

Gender

Reitz, Caroline. Rev. The New Female Antihero: The Disruptive Women of Twenty-first-Century US Television. 41.1: 145–46.

Schaffer, Rachel. Rev. of Sleuthing Miss Marple: Gender, Genre, and Agency in Agatha Christie's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 140–42.

Schnabel, Jennifer. Rev. of Contemporary French and Scandinavian Crime Fiction: Citizenship, Gender and Ethnicity. 41.2: 114–15.

Genre

Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville's The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.

Kenley, Nicole. "So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land": Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

Narvaez, Richie. Needing to Nail Down "Noir" for Creative Writing Students. 41.2: 94–95.

Rolens, Clare. Rev. Noir in the North: Genre, Politics and Place. 41.1: 143–45.

Schaffer, Rachel. Rev. of Sleuthing Miss Marple: Gender, Genre, and Agency in Agatha Christie's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 140–42.

Hammett, Dashiell

Narvaez, Richie. Needing to Nail Down "Noir" for Creative Writing Students. 41.2: 94–95.

Heritage Crime

Beyer, Charlotte. "No Picturesque Village is Safe": Agatha Christie's Cornish Crime Scenes in "The Blood–Stained Pavement" and "Ingots of Gold." 41.1: 95–105.

History

Ní Éigearthaigh, Aoileann. "Not everything buried is actually dead": The Detective as Historian in Louise Penny's Bury Your Dead (2010). 41.2: 43–52.

Historical Fiction

Quinn, Kate M. Spotlight on... Detective Fiction in Chile: Developments in the Genre. 41.2: 8–20.

Identity

Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major's One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.

Ní Éigearthaigh, Aoileann. "Not everything buried is actually dead": The Detective as Historian in Louise Penny's Bury Your Dead (2010). 41.2: 43–52.

To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.

Immigration

Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.

Indian Detective Fiction

Calhoun-French, Diane M. Rev. of Critical Essays on English and Bengali Crime Fiction. 41.1: 142–43.

Das, Shreya. The "Other" Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay's Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Indigenous Culture

Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.

Kenley, Nicole. "So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land": Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

Interwar Detective Fiction

Hopkins, Lisa. Rev. of Fear and Clothing: Dress in English Detective Fiction Between the First and Second World Wars. 41.2: 111–12.

Islamophobia

Cuder-Domínguez, Pilar. Embodied Borders: Countering Islamophobia in Ausma Zehanat Khan's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Japanese Crime Fiction

Sundin, Lola. Japanese Crime Fiction as World Literature. 41.1: 84–94.

Johnson, Craig

Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.

Khan, Ausma Zehanat

Cuder-Domínguez, Pilar. Embodied Borders: Countering Islamophobia in Ausma Zehanat Khan's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Labrador

Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major's One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.

Latin American Detective Fiction

Quinn, Kate M. Spotlight on... Detective Fiction in Chile: Developments in the Genre. 41.2: 8–20.

Literary Fiction

Taylor, Art. It's No Mystery: What Genre Fiction Can Teach All Writers. 41.2: 91–93.

Longmire, Walt

Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.

Kenley, Nicole. "So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land": Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

Los Angeles Police Department

Williams, Benjamin. Transmitting Aural Borders: Racialized Sounds, Automobility, and Criminality in Calling All Cars. 41.1: 117–27.

Major, Kevin

Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major's One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.

Mankell, Henning

Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.

Mediterranean Sea

Ruzzi, Sylvia. Crimes at the Maritime Border: Miguel Pajares's Agua de venganza [Waters of Revenge]. 41.1: 13–27.

Metaphysical Detective Fiction

Carrigy, Daniel. Riddle Me This: The Batman (2022) as Metaphysical Detective Fiction. 41.2: 73–85.

Miéville, China

Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville's The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.

Migration

Das, Shreya. The "Other" Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay's Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Ruzzi, Sylvia. Crimes at the Maritime Border: Miguel Pajares's Agua de venganza [Waters of Revenge]. 41.1: 13–27.

Miss Marple

Schaffer, Rachel. Rev. of Sleuthing Miss Marple: Gender, Genre, and Agency in Agatha Christie's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 140–42.

Native American Detective Fiction

Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.

Kenley, Nicole. "So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land": Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

Neo-Noir

Szeljack, Scott. Rev. of Neo-Noir as Post-Classical Hollywood Cinema. 41.2: 112–14.

Neopolicial

Quinn, Kate M. Spotlight on... Detective Fiction in Chile: Developments in the Genre. 41.2: 8–20.

Newfoundland

Halford, Tom. Sunset Tourism in Kevin Major's One for the Rock, Two for the Tablelands, and Three for the Trinity: Travel and Identity in Three Newfoundland and Labrador Crime Novels. 41.2: 53–63.

Noir

Kochhar-Lindgren, Gray. Chiaroscuro: Gilles Deleuze, Ernst Bloch, and the Philosophy of Detective Fiction. 41.2: 64–72.

Narvaez, Richie. Needing to Nail Down “Noir” for Creative Writing Students. 41.2: 94–95.

Nordic Noir

Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya, Somdatta. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.

Schnabel, Jennifer. Rev. of Contemporary French and Scandinavian Crime Fiction: Citizenship, Gender and Ethnicity. 41.2: 114–15.

Pajares, Miguel

Rolens, Clare. Rev. Noir in the North: Genre, Politics and Place. 41.1: 143–45.

Ruzzi, Sylvia. Crimes at the Maritime Border: Miguel Pajares's Agua de venganza [Waters of Revenge]. 41.1: 13–27.

Partition

Das, Shreya. The “Other” Conflicts: Borders in Saradindu Bandopadhyay's Bengali Detective Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Passing

To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.

Pedagogy

Bernthal, J. C. Teaching Crime Fiction as Creative Writing: Introduction. 41.2: 87–88.

Beyer, Charlotte. Using Creative Writing in English Literature Assessment: Diversity and Inclusion on an Undergraduate Crime Fiction Module. 41.2: 107–09.

Evans, Mary Anna. Reading Crime Fiction, Writing Crime Fiction, and Overcoming the Tyranny of the Calendar. 41.2: 101–03.

Green, Andrew. Creative Crime Writing and “Enacted Criticism.” 41.2: 98–100.

Narvaez, Richie. Needing to Nail Down “Noir” for Creative Writing Students. 41.2: 94–95.

Steege, Miranda. How We Know What We Know: Crime Fiction in Creative Composition Writing. 41.2: 96–97.

Taft, Alison. The Adrenalin Knowledge Gap. 41.2: 89–90.

Taylor, Art. It's No Mystery: What Genre Fiction Can Teach All Writers. 41.2: 91–93.

Ue, Tom. Build-A-Mutant, Save the World: Metrics, Murder, and Mayhem in Bryan Singer's X-Men: Days of Future Past. 41.2: 104–06.

Philosophy

Kochhar-Lindgren, Gray. Chiaroscuro: Gilles Deleuze, Ernst Bloch, and the Philosophy of Detective Fiction. 41.2: 64–72.

Police Docudrama

Williams, Benjamin. Transmitting Aural Borders: Racialized Sounds, Automobility, and Criminality in Calling All Cars. 41.1: 117–27.

Postrace

To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.

Québec

Ní Éigeartaigh, Aoileann. “Not everything buried is actually dead”: The Detective as Historian in Louise Penny's Bury Your Dead (2010). 41.2: 43–52.

Race

Abele, Elizabeth. From Alexie's Indian Killer to Johnson's Longmire Series: Expanding the Landscape of the American Indian Detective Novel. 41.2: 31–42.

Cuder-Domínguez, Pilar. Embodied Borders: Countering Islamophobia in Ausma Zehanat Khan's Crime Fiction. 41.1: 52–61.

Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.

To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.

Radio Programs

Williams, Benjamin. Transmitting Aural Borders: Racialized Sounds, Automobility, and Criminality in Calling All Cars. 41.1: 117–27.

Reeves, Matt

Carrigy, Daniel. Riddle Me This: The Batman (2022) as Metaphysical Detective Fiction. 41.2: 73–85.

Scandinavian Crime Fiction

Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.

Schnabel, Jennifer. Rev. of Contemporary French and Scandinavian Crime Fiction: Citizenship, Gender and Ethnicity. 41.2: 114–15.

Serial Killers

Borrione, Francesca. Reframing Il Mostro in Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders: American Killers, Italian Monsters, and the Transnational Imagination. 41.1: 128–38.

Settler Colonialism

Kenley, Nicole. “So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land”: Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

Singer, Bryan

Ue, Tom. Build-A-Mutant, Save the World: Metrics, Murder, and Mayhem in Bryan Singer's X-Men: Days of Future Past. 41.2: 104–06.

Sonic Discipline

Williams, Benjamin. Transmitting Aural Borders: Racialized Sounds, Automobility, and Criminality in Calling All Cars. 41.1: 117–27.

Spaciality

Kammer, Mona. Securing and Crossing Borders: Estrangement in China Miéville's The City and the City. 41.1: 106–16.

Subtext

Taft, Alison. The Adrenalin Knowledge Gap. 41.2: 89–90.

Translation

Sundin, Lola. Japanese Crime Fiction as World Literature. 41.1: 84–94.

Transnational Studies

Borrione, Francesca. Reframing Il Mostro in Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders: American Killers, Italian Monsters, and the Transnational Imagination. 41.1: 128–38.

Transpacific Studies

To, Sydney Van. The Geopolitics of Passing in Carlos Bulosan's All the Conspirators. 41.1: 39–51.

Uncanny

Beyer, Charlotte. “No Picturesque Village is Safe”: Agatha Christie's Cornish Crime Scenes in “The Blood-Stained Pavement” and “Ingots of Gold.” 41.1: 95–105.

Wallander, Kurt

Mandal, Aratrika, and Somdatta Bhattacharya. Policing Mobility and Boundaries: A Study of Henning Mankell's The Dogs of Riga and Firewall. 41.1: 28–38.

Weiden, David Heska Wanbli

Kenley, Nicole. “So long as [the crime] took place on Indian land”: Borders, Colonialism, and Indigeneity in Winter Counts. 41.1: 74–83.

Women's Writing

Quinn, Kate M. Spotlight on... Detective Fiction in Chile: Developments in the Genre. 41.2: 8–20.

World Crime Fiction

Graham, Anissa M. Rev. of The Cambridge Companion to World Crime Fiction. 40.1: 139–40.

Sundin, Lola. Japanese Crime Fiction as World Literature. 41.1: 84–94.

X-Men: Days of Future Past

Ue, Tom. Build-A-Mutant, Save the World: Metrics, Murder, and Mayhem in Bryan Singer's X-Men: Days of Future Past. 41.2: 104–06.